

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Army Veteran Publishes Collection of Short Stories

KILLEEN, Texas, United States - November 17, 2019 - Retired Army veteran Angel Turner, is set to make her debut in the writing world this year. THE RED BOX AND OTHER SHORT STORIES features three stories that range from drama to suspense. This featured publication, a new e-book, will sell for $5000 at Smashwords.com.

In each of these stories, the main characters find themselves in predicaments that are far less than ideal. These themes follow Turner's ideal writing style of introducing a character and allowing the reader to follow them on a journey to a daunting end.

"The Room" follows a young boy hiding under the bed. He overhears his parents discussing recent events that will forever change his life. Something unfathomable has happened but, for him, it was necessary.

In the short story "Mama Bear," Charley is in love with Diane. She has been avoiding him and he doesn't know. He soon finds out everything he has every wanted is right in front of him, but it won't last long.

Finally, there's "The Red Box." In this short story, Julie finally overcomes her past. Her boyfriend of one year has some major news. This story turns out to be closer to the nightmare Julie tried desperately to escape, but she doesn't realize this until it is almost too late.

Angel L. Turner is an aspiring novelist who is working on her Bachelor of Fine Arts in Creative Writing. Turner attended the Defense Information School in 2009 and spent six years writing as a Public Affairs Specialist in the U.S. Army. Her focus of writing is children's, mystery and defeating the odds, type books. Turner wrote and published her first children's book in the second grade. Who's Who Among Young Writers recognized her works several years in the late 90s and early 2000s.
